

FAQ's: "TAG" One for the Guard Challenge

Q: I think I know someone who may be interested in joining the Guard. What information does my unit recruiter need to make me eligible for this incentive program?

A: The preferred contact information is a home or cellular telephone number. However, other methods of contact with a lead will qualify (i.e. e-mail address or physical address.)

Q: How will a RRNCO nominate a unit member for the challenge?

A: In the Army Recruiting Information Support System (ARISS), RRNCOs will enter the referring unit member's name under the enlistment source for the enlistment they referred, and the necessary information required to confirm the accession.

Q: How will the information entered by the RRNCO be verified?

A: All enlistments will be verified using ARISS.

Q: If my RRNCO does not enter my name as the lead source in ARISS, am I still eligible for incentives?

A: No. In order to ensure only deserving soldiers are awarded incentives, all qualifying soldiers must be entered in ARISS as the lead source.

Q: I referred someone for enlistment, but they did not enlist until after 31 Jul 05. Since I referred them during the incentive period, do I still qualify?

A: Unfortunately, no. To qualify, all referrals must be accessed as a member of the Michigan Army National Guard by 31 July 05.

Q: Will the State prevent RRNCO's from giving credit for enlistments to unit members who did not bring them a real lead?

A: If an RRNCO knowingly provides false information on a unit member, and that unit member wins the challenge, the RRNCO will lose credit for those accessions and all accessions that they submitted during the challenge. They may also be subject to punitive actions under UCMJ/MCMJ.

Q: Once the Challenge period is over, will there be any way for me to know how well I performed as compared to other soldiers?

A: A list of all soldiers qualifying for incentives will be published in the first issue of the Wolverine Guard following the challenge.

We will send out regular updates on "TAG" One for the Guard 2005 to keep the team updated on our progress. For more information contact 2LT Christopher Stone, christopher.stone@mi.ngb.army.mil.